The first relates to predictions, which have a regular historical connection, like those of Daniel and the author of the Apocalypse - the other, is where the prophet does not follow a chronological order, but breaks out in rhapsodies, as the spirit of God upon him, or the kindred glories of his theme more immediately suggest. If this distinction be a just one, it is evident that the prophecy chosen for our text, is of the latter description. The Psalmist is expatiating in one of his most elevated strains, on the character of Jehovah and his mighty works on the behalf of Messiah's kingdom - and he throws himself out, to use the expression of another, upon some of the most remarkable glories of that kingdom in the last days. Far down the vista of time, a captivating object rises upon his vision: the connecting links in the chain of events are of no consequence, and time, space and circumstances are apparently forgotten, while he exclaims - Princes shall come out of Egypt: - Ethiopia shall soon stretch forth her hands unto God! Where then is that Ethiopia, the vision of which so captivated the prophet? and what is the amount of the prediction on its behalf, which is here contained? That tract of country on the west of the Red Sea, to which the name of Ethiopia and more generally, of Abyssinia, is now given, cannot, we think, be the whole region intended by the prediction....
